U. S. CONTROL OF RAILS

NECESSARY—ROOSEVELT

Colonel Declares So-Called Anti-Trust Law Just as Mischievous in Peace as in War.

By THEODORE ROOSEVELT In the Kansas City Star.

The assumption of control by the government over the railroads was certainly necessary, exactly how far it will go is not evident. At present what has been done is merely to introduce government supervision and to control their operations in the defense of the Sherman law. In other words, the government has wisely abandoned the effort to enforce competition among the railroads and has introduced the principle of control over corporate organizations.

The Attorney General has just announced that he will, for the time being, abandon the suits under the Sherman law to break up the Harvester and Steel corporations, because it is not wise to do so during the war. Mr. Culbertson, the able expert on the government tariff board, has announced that the Sherman law is mischievous in international trade. Mr. Francis Heney, whom in all the country there is no more determined and efficient enemy of wrong-doing corporations, has stated that the Sherman law, the so-called anti-trust law, is mischievous.

U. S. Right and Power Established.

In other words under the strain of the war the Sherman law has completely broken down and the government is not merely committing a blunder, it is violating by many different corporations.

The Sherman law, or so-called anti-trust law, is just as mischievous in peace as
